

ARLEM output stops at the number the prompt asks for below the minimum exactly the minimum one above two or more above

All successful runs of both ARLEM specifications, which carry identical minimum-count wording.
Models satisfy the constraint and stop: 78% of runs produce exactly two places and 56% exactly three things. The json_lab prompt states its minimums the same way and gets no such effect.

